

BLUE MOUNTAINS

EDIBLE GARDEN TRAIL 2024

We sincerely acknowledge the traditional custodians of the Blue Mountains, the Darug and Gundungurra peoples, on whose land the Edible Garden Trail takes place. We pay our respects to their elders, past and present, thank them for their continuing care for Country, and acknowledge that sovereignty was never ceded.
Always was, always will be Aboriginal land.

ENJOYING YOUR EDIBLE GARDEN TRAIL

SAFETY FIRST - Important Message for Visitors

The Edible Garden Trail team and the garden owners have taken all reasonable precautions to make the gardens safe for visitors. However, despite all efforts, there are possible inherent dangers in all gardens, including uneven paths, steps, walls, borders and other garden features that may present hazards, particularly as these are working gardens developed for produce not visitors.

We ask that when climbing, descending or crossing parts of the gardens, you act only within the limits of your fitness and take particular care to prevent tripping, slipping, falling, striking or colliding with objects in the trail gardens.

Please check our website ediblegardentrail.com or social media for updates to the Trail regarding weather conditions or garden closures due to unforeseen circumstances.

- Please ask about stroller access as some gardens are not stroller friendly.
- Children must be accompanied by, and under supervision of, an adult at all times.
- Dogs and other animals are not permitted in any garden.
- Garden visitors must stay on paths at all times and must not enter areas marked "out of bounds" or obviously private.
- Beware, some gardens have bees or other insects.
- Make sure to wear sensible and sturdy footwear.
- Don't forget sunscreen, a hat and water – or an umbrella and gumboots.
- Have a great weekend and don't forget to let us know how much you enjoy the Trail!
